The Kitchen, With Love

Clarinet and Baritone: Vamp until alto has completed her lines. Cue to begin your last bar: "Hidden in the everyday."

Calm and meandering

One of my favorite experiences as a human is the feeling you get when you're in a warm kitchen, staring down at a boiling pot of fresh noodles, while someone behind you is cursing at their own part of the meal preparation, but still manages to kiss you on the cheek every third sentence. I like the small details hidden in the everyday. They make us human.
